

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Once upon a time in Japan ...

Learning Outcome

Describe hypothetical situations in written and spoken interactions according to work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What do you know about Japan?
- What do you think a Japanese folk tale might be about?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about myths and legends.
- I can talk about reactions and behaviors in different situations.
- I can quote other people.

Let's Explore!

The stepmother hisses at the daughter!

* A "hissing" sound is what a snake makes.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Here is another folk tale that has been told many times.

It's long ago, in Japan. A man lives there with his wife and daughter. One day, the woman becomes very ill. When her daughter has been brought to her, she asks her to make sure that her father is being taken care of. Then, the child cries as she is being given a mirror.

Her mother explains that whenever she felt sad and lonely, she would look into the mirror. She says that she would see her mother's face. She adds that she would see her as she had been when she was young.

After her mother dies, the young girl misses her. Eventually, she is standing at the temple while her father is being married once again. His new wife abhors the young girl. She is being consumed with jealousy.

The new wife sees the girl looking into the mirror. She tells her husband his daughter was trying to kill her. She hisses that the daughter was using evil magic!

The angry father asks his daughter why she was trying to kill her stepmother!

The daughter replies that she wasn't trying to kill his new wife. She was only looking in the mirror she has been given by her mother.

We know the message has been conveyed, because the father and stepmother both feel ashamed ... From that day forth, they live together in peace. Whenever the girl wants to see her mother, she looks in the mirror.

Let's Practice!

The daughter in the story had a lot to explain to her parents.

Instructions: Proofread the sentences. Correct the mistake. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

1. The mother explains that whenever she felts sad and lonely, she should look into the mirror.

2. She says that she would saw her mother's face.

3. The new wife tells her husband his daughter tied to kill her.

4. She hissed that the daughter was using evil magic!

5. The angry father asks his daughter why she had tried to kill her stepmother.

6. The daughter replied that she wasn't trying to kill his new wife.

Let's Practice!

Myths and legends are full of important words and meanings.

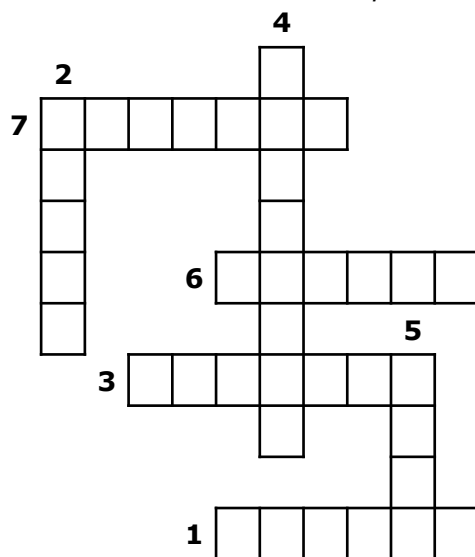

Instructions: Find the words about Myths and Legends. Read the definitions and complete the wordsearch.

Down

2. to dislike something very much
4. an angry feeling
5. causing harm or injury to someone

Across

1. a building for religious practice
3. to destroy
6. to make something known to someone
7. feeling shame or guilt

Extension Activity

Find out about mirrors in folk and fairy tales.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Look up mirrors in folktales and fairy tales and make some notes on how they were used in these stories.
- Now write a short tale of your own involving a mirror.
- Quote people when possible.
- Read the story to a partner.
- Check the spelling and grammar together and correct any mistakes.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I look up information used in folk tales and fairytales.

☐ ☐

I write a tale with a mirror in it.

☐ ☐

I use reported speech in my tale.

☐ ☐

I share my story with a partner.

☐ ☐

I check for spelling and grammar mistakes.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- temple (noun): a building for religious practice
e.g. She is standing at the temple while her father is being married once again.
- to abhor (verb): to dislike someone or something very much e.g. His new wife abhors the young girl.
- to consume (verb): to destroy
e.g. She is being consumed with jealousy.
- jealousy (noun): feeling angry because someone else has what you want
e.g. She is being consumed with jealousy.
- evil (adjective): cruel: causing harm or injury to someone e.g. She hisses that the daughter was using evil magic!
- to convey (verb): to make something known to someone e.g. We know the message has been conveyed.
- ashamed (adjective): feeling shame or guilt
e.g. The father and stepmother both feel ashamed.

Learning Points

Reported Speech and Questions

You use reported speech (indirect speech) when you are saying (reporting) what other people said.

This style of writing is common in storytelling. It allows the writer to share dialogue with the reader without always using quotation marks.

When you tell people what someone has said you generally make the verb tense 'more in the past' since you are reporting the information at a later time. You need to change the verb to the next past form.

For example:

Direct speech	Reported speech
"I like him."	He said he liked him.
"I like him."	He said he liked him.
"I'm coming to the party."	She said she was coming .
"I already ate ."	He said he had already eaten.
"I can cook."	He told me he could cook.

You have to change the pronoun if you are reporting what someone else said. Compare these two sentences. In each case the person actually said "I don't want to go."

- I said, "I don't want to go." > I said I didn't want to go.
- Bill said, "I don't want to go." > Bill said he didn't want to go.

When you want to report questions asked, the subject normally comes before the verb.

Direct: "Why are you trying to kill your stepmother?" the angry father asks.

Indirect: The angry father asks his daughter why she was trying to kill her stepmother.

Learning Points

Look at the chart below to see the changes in verb tense.

Direct speech	Reported speech
Simple Present	Simple Past
Present Progressive	Past Progressive
Simple Past	Past Perfect
Present Perfect	Past Perfect
Past Progressive	Past Perfect Progressive
Future Simple (will)	Conditional (would)
Modal Can	Modal Could
Modal May	Modal Might
Modal Will	Modal Would

Examples:

- She says that she would see her mother's face.
- She adds that she would see her as she had been when she was young.
- The daughter replies that she wasn't trying to kill his new wife.
- She hisses that the daughter was using evil magic!
- Her mother explains that whenever she felt sad and lonely, she should look into the mirror.

Learning Points

The Passive: The Present Continuous and Present Perfect Tenses

You use the Present Continuous to talk about an action that is happening at the time of speaking. The action or event is in progress.

The mother is giving a mirror to the child.

You use the Present Perfect to talk about a finished action or event with present consequences. There is a connection between what happened in the past and the present.

People have told this folktale many times.

You often choose the passive form when you want to talk about an action but are not so interested in saying who or what does/did it. Passives without agents (the doers) are common in storytelling.

Look at the chart below for the structure of the passive voice.

Name	Structure	Example
Present Continuous	am/are/is + being + past participle	Then, the child cries as she is being given a mirror.
Present Perfect	have/has + been + past participle	Here is another folk tale that has been told many times.

Examples:

- When her daughter has been brought to her, she asks her to make sure that her father is being taken care of.
- Eventually she is standing at the temple while her father is being married once again.
- His new wife abhors the young girl. She is being consumed with jealousy.
- She was only looking in the mirror she has been given by her mother.

