

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

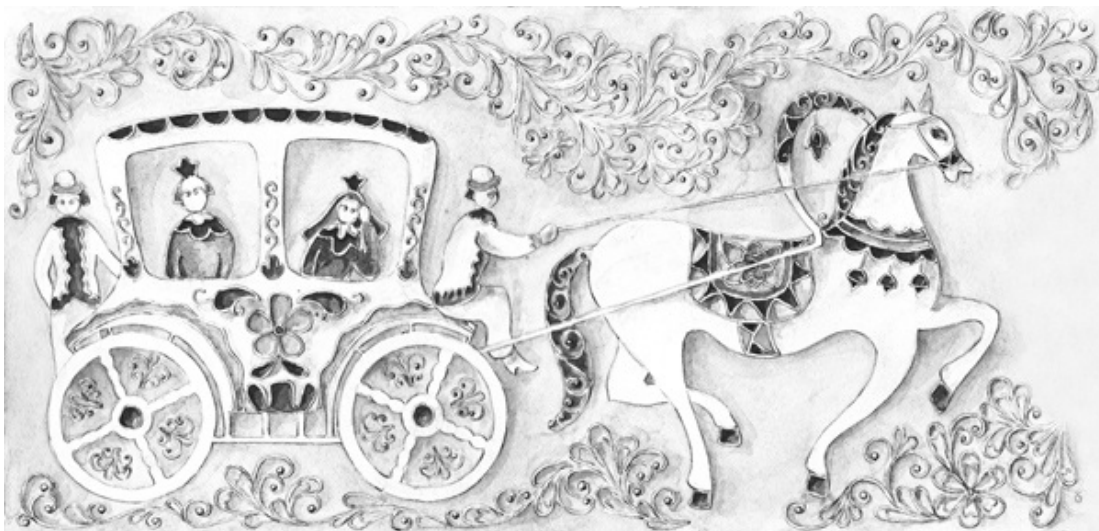

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Children love fairy tales!

Learning Outcome

Describe hypothetical situations in written and spoken interactions according to social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Are fairy tales good or bad for children?
- How might "happily ever after" be bad for their perspective on life as they grow up?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about myths and legends.
- I can talk about reactions and behaviors in different situations.
- I can quote other people.

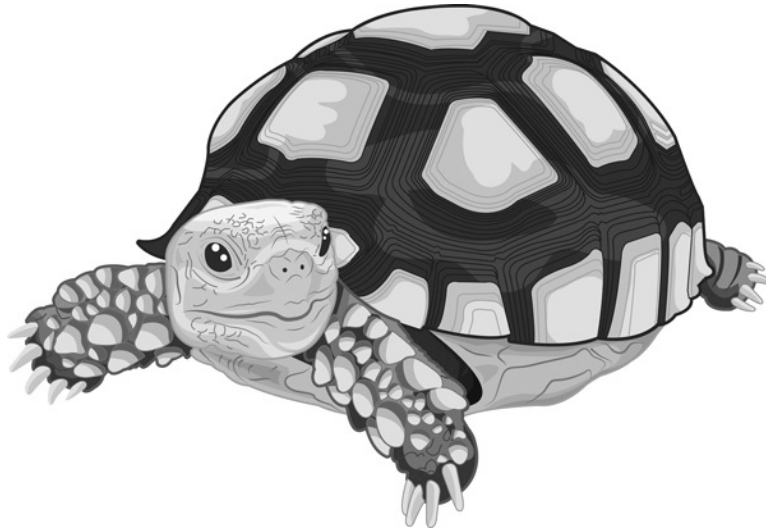

Let's Explore!

Timmy is being tucked in after the story!

* When someone is "tucked in" they are put into bed and the covers are pulled up over them.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Timmy has just been brought home from the hospital. His arm has been broken in an accident. He isn't being allowed to go back to preschool for a day or two.

Timmy is being told a story by his grandmother. He is being rocked in the big chair that has been brought into his room. His grandmother hopes he'll relax and fall asleep. She begins ... Mr. Tortoise had a good friend, Vulture. Vulture often visited Tortoise. Tortoise said that he was sad because he had never been able to visit Vulture. Tortoise said that because he had no wings and couldn't fly it was impossible.

One day Tortoise had an idea. He asked if his wife could hide him in a package of peanuts. He said that she should tell Vulture the package was for him. He said she should tell Vulture to take it home.

Mrs. Tortoise did this, and Vulture happily secured the package in his beak. While Vulture was soaring home, he heard a voice that said it was his friend, Tortoise. The voice continued, saying that he had come to visit.

Vulture was so surprised to hear a voice coming from the package that he dropped it. The package plummeted down to earth, with Tortoise in it. When it hit the ground, Tortoise's shell broke into pieces. That is how Tortoise got all those cracks in his shell.

Now Timmy has been put into his bed. He's being tucked in tight! He's fast asleep. Shhhh.

Let's Practice!

Poor Timmy needs a good bedtime story.

Instructions: Select the correct answer. Practice saying the complete sentences aloud with your partner. Correct each other.

1. Timmy has just _____ home from the hospital.
 - a. been brought
 - b. brought
 - c. been bringing
2. His arm has _____ in an accident.
 - a. broken
 - b. been broke
 - c. been broken
3. He isn't _____ to go back to preschool for a day or two.
 - a. being allowed
 - b. allowed
 - c. been allowed
4. Timmy is _____ a story by his grandmother.
 - a. told
 - b. being told
 - c. telling
5. He is _____ in the big chair that _____ into his room.
 - a. been rocked/ has been brought
 - b. being rocked/ has been brought
 - c. being rocking/ has been bringing
6. Now Timmy _____ into his bed.
 - a. has been
 - b. has been put
 - c. has put
7. He's _____ in tight!
 - a. being tucked
 - b. been tucked
 - c. been tucking

Let's Practice!

Poor Tortoise had quite a shock. Let's hear what he had to say!

Instructions: Choose the expressions from the word bank to correctly complete the sentences.

Word Bank

- a voice that said
- he had never been
- He explained that
- continued saying
- He asked if

1. Tortoise said that he was sad because _____ able to visit Vulture.
2. _____ his wife could hide him in a package of peanuts.
3. _____ she should tell Vulture the package was for him.
4. Vulture heard _____ it was his friend, Tortoise.
5. The voice _____ that he had come to visit.

Extension Activity

Critique a movie fairy tale.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Find out what psychologists have to say about fairy tales and children.
- Write down three things that you agree with and three things that you do not agree with.
- Quote one idea, then explain why you agree or disagree, supporting your ideas.
- Read your ideas to a classmate and discuss them.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I find out what psychologists say about fairy tales and children.

☐ ☐

I identify 3 things I agree with.

☐ ☐

I identify 3 things I don't agree with.

☐ ☐

I quote the psychologist then explain why I agree or disagree.

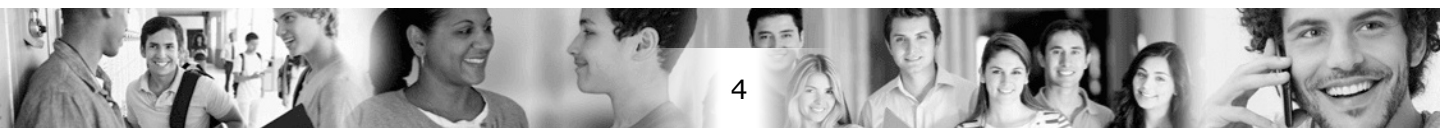

☐ ☐

I support my ideas.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- preschool (noun): a place where small kids go to school for the first time
e.g. He isn't being allowed to go back to preschool for a day or two.
- to rock (verb): to move someone or something back and forth or from side to side
e.g. He is being rocked in the big chair that has been brought into his room.
- tortoise (noun): a kind of turtle that lives on land
e.g. Mr. Tortoise had a good friend.
- vulture (noun): any one of several large birds that eat dead animals and have a small and featherless head
e.g. Vulture often visited Tortoise.
- to secure (verb): To provide protection from danger or harm
e.g. Vulture happily secured the package in his beak.
- beak (noun): the hard, pointed parts that cover a bird's mouth
e.g. Vulture secured the package in his beak.
- to soar (verb): to fly, to glide
e.g. While Vulture was soaring home, he heard a voice that said it was his friend.
- to plummet (verb): to fall very quickly and suddenly e.g. The package plummeted down to Earth.
- crack (noun): a thin line on the surface of something when it is broken but has not actually come apart
e.g. That is how Tortoise got all those cracks in his shell.
- to tuck in (verb): to carefully place someone into something
e.g. He's being tucked in tight! He's fast asleep. Shhhh.

Learning Points

The Passive: The Present Continuous and Present Perfect Tenses

You use the Present Continuous to talk about an action that is happening at the time of speaking. The action or event is in progress.

His parents are not allowing him to go back to preschool for a day or two.

You use the Present Perfect to talk about a finished action or event with present consequences. There is a connection between what happened in the past and the present.

His parents have just brought Timmy home from the hospital.

You often choose the passive form when you want to talk about an action but are not so interested in saying who or what does/did it. Passives without agents (the doers) are common in storytelling.

Look at the chart below for the structure of the passive voice.

Name	Structure	Example
Present Continuous	am/are/is + (not) being + past participle	He isn't being allowed to go back to preschool for a day or two.
Present Perfect	have/has + been + past participle	Timmy has just been brought home from the hospital.

Examples:

- Timmy has just been brought home from the hospital.
- His arm has been broken in an accident.
- He isn't being allowed to go back to preschool for a day or two.
- Timmy is being told a story by his grandmother.
- He is being rocked in the big chair that has been brought into his room.
- Now Timmy has been put into his bed.
- He's being tucked in tight!

Reported Speech and Questions

You use reported speech (indirect speech) when you are saying (reporting) what other people said.

This style of writing is common in storytelling. It allows the writer to share dialogue with the reader without always using quotation marks.

When you tell people what someone has said you generally make the verb tense 'more in the past' since we are reporting the information at a later time. You need to change the verb to the next past form.

Learning Points

For example:

Direct speech	Reported speech
"I like him."	He said he liked him.
"I'm coming to the party."	He said he was coming .
"I already ate ."	He said he had already eaten.
"I can cook."	He told me he could cook.

You have to change the pronoun if you are reporting what someone else said. Compare these two sentences. In each case the person actually said "I don't want to go."

- I said, "I don't want to go." > I said I didn't want to go.
- Bill said, "I don't want to go." > Bill said he didn't want to go.

When you want to report questions asked, the subject normally comes before the verb. When the question is a yes/no questions, you use if or whether to report it.

Direct: "Can you hide me in a package of peanuts?" he asked his wife.

Indirect: He asked if his wife could hide him in a package of peanuts.

Look at the chart below to see the changes in verb tense.

Direct speech	Reported speech
Simple Present	Simple Past
Present Progressive	Past Progressive
Simple Past	Past Perfect
Present Perfect	Past Perfect
Past Progressive	Past Perfect Progressive
Future Simple (will)	Conditional (would)
Modal Can	Modal Could
Modal May	Modal Might
Modal Will	Modal Would

Learning Points

Examples:

- He asked if his wife could hide him in a package of peanuts.
- Tortoise said that he was sad because he had never been able to visit Vulture.
- Tortoise said that because he had no wings and couldn't fly it was impossible.
- While Vulture was soaring home, he heard a voice that said it was his friend, Tortoise.
- The voice continued, saying that he had come to visit.

